

Abstract

The present invention relates to a nucleic acid molecule or molecules and to a process for the detection of bacteria of the Salmonella genus. The invention relates also to a test kit or test kits for carrying out the mentioned detection processes.